

Clinical negligence: facts and figures

During the past three financial years the number of new clinical and non-clinical claims reported has fallen since peaking in 2013/14.

In 2016-17, the NHS received 208,415 written complaints, the equivalent of 4,008 written complaints a week or 571 complaints per day.

Full-time GPs are now twice as likely to receive a claim for clinical negligence as they were a decade ago.

In 2016-17, the NHS made clinical negligence payments of £1,707.2 million.

In 2016, the General Medical Council received 8,197 complaints, of which 18% were investigated, 6% were sent for further examination and 76% were closed immediately.

A 2013 report found it took more than a year for one in five people to be diagnosed with bowel cancer after first visiting their GP.

Research suggests nearly a third of heart attack cases are misdiagnosed initially.

In March 2010, a review found gynaecological, skin, urological and breast cancers were most vulnerable to delayed diagnoses.
